

'Say Your Majesty,' said Zoe.

'Your Majesty,' said Dee and Sam and

'Bow to the Queen,' said Zoe.

oe.

Joe and Sam and Dee bowed to the Queen.

'Now for the magic lemonade,' said Z

She worked the handle again.

There was nothing, nothing at all.

'Oh dear,' said Zoe. 'No more magic lemonade. I must have used it all up.'

Never mind. I am a very kind queen. I am sure there is a bottle of magic lemonade in the fridge at home. I will go and fetch it.

Make way for the Queen!'

They all made way for the Queen. Zo swept past them.

'You must all bring something to eat.

That is my royal command. We will have a royal feast in the royal pavilion!'

Zoe tottered off home. 'She's not a queen at all, grumbled Dee. 'She's a bossy boots.'

All the same she did as she said.

'What a show-off,' muttered Joe.

All the same, he did as he was told.

'She always wants to be IT,' complained Sam, and went looking for something to eat.

Zoe returned with some magic lemonade. Joe brought raisins. Dee had biscuits. Sam had bananas. They had a wonderful feast in the royal kitchen.

'Three cheers for Queen Bossy Boots,' said Dee.

'Three cheers for Her Royal Show-off,' said Joe.

'Three cheers for IT!' said Sam.

'I am not a bossy boots,' said Zoe taking off her cloak.

'I am not Her Royal Show-off,' she added, taking off her crown.

'I am not IT,' she said, kicking off her high-heeled shoes.

And those ...

'I am not a queen either,' she said, ruffling up her hair into a tangle.

'Now I am a witch! That is not magic lemonade. That is magic potion.

It will turn you all into . . .
