

Meridian
Trust

Curriculum Overview

Drama

Curriculum Overview

Key Stage 3

Curriculum Aims

For some students, this will be their first time attending regular Drama lessons. The aims are to introduce an awareness of what Drama is and foster a love for the subject.

Whilst learning and practising creative Drama techniques the students will unknowingly be working on building life skills such as creativity, communication, and dedication. They will gain confidence that will help them throughout their time in education and build skills that they will take into the world of work.

The trust champions the Arts, seeing the value therein and therefore all students take part in Drama lessons during Key Stage 3. This gives them a thorough awareness of the subject matter and enables them to make an informed choice whether they want to continue their Drama studies at Key Stage 4 or not..

Key Curriculum Content

Students participate in a cycle of creating, performing and evaluating their work within each scheme of learning.

Students will work in various formations including independent work, pairs small groups and as an ensemble/whole class.

Students will work to both devise their own work and perform scripted pieces from published plays.

The content and sequencing of the curriculum is as follows:

- Basic stage techniques such as proximity to the audience and other characters. Vocal projection;
- Physicalisation of character including gesture, stillness, expression, posture, facial expressions and movement;
- Vocal skills appropriate to role and situation including pitch, pause, pace, tone accent, volume, clarity and emphasis;
- Creating a play including elements of an interesting story enabling them to develop imaginative and developed ideas;

"THROUGHOUT THE CURRICULUM STUDENTS DEVELOP A LIFELONG LOVE OF LEARNING AND THE NECESSARY SKILLS TO BE A RESILIENT, CONFIDENT AND INDEPENDENT LEARNER."

- Dramatic techniques such as levels, split focus, flashback, monologue, duologue, dialogue, choral speaking and still image and multi role playing.

How are students taught and assessed?

Drama is taught mainly through practical group work. Students are introduced to a topic, spend time exploring, learning and developing skills whilst creating and improving work.

Drama work is created around various themes and practitioners including (but not limited to) Stanislavskian, Brechtian and Physical Theatre styles.

Showing of work both at work in progress and completion stages is common practice. Peer and teacher feedback are a huge part of the learning process.

Students are taught to work together as a team to develop their negotiation and listening skills, working to reach compromises, to be inclusive of the ideas of others as well as offering their own ideas.

Schemes of learning throughout the trust offer opportunities to learn about diversity and gain knowledge of the wider world.

Each termly scheme of learning culminates in a practical assessment and a written evaluation giving students a grade which is tracked and fed back.

Students are then encouraged to act on the feedback to enable them to improve.

Typical Curriculum Allocation: 1 or 2 hours per fortnight or on a carousel with other Arts subjects

Curriculum Overview

Key Stage 4

Curriculum Aims

We prepare students for success at GCSE Drama by enabling students to:

- apply knowledge and understanding when making, performing and responding to drama;
- explore performance texts, understanding their social, cultural and historical context including the theatrical conventions of the period in which they were created;
- develop a range of theatrical skills and apply them to create performances;
- work collaboratively to generate, develop and communicate ideas;
- develop as creative, effective, independent and reflective learners able to make informed choices in process and performance;
- contribute as an individual to a theatrical performance;
- reflect on and evaluate their own work and that of others;
- develop an awareness and understanding of the roles and processes undertaken in contemporary professional theatre practice;
- adopt safe working practices.

GCSE courses promote involvement in drama, as performers and/or designers. Students are given opportunities to participate in and interpret their own and others' drama.

Students have the option to work practically as performers and/or designers. They investigate as practitioners and genres of drama, work collaboratively to develop ideas to communicate meaning and experiment with dramatic conventions, forms and techniques.

Key Curriculum Content

The GCSE courses and specifications are designed to integrate knowledge and understanding of how drama and theatre is developed and performed across a range of dramatic activities.

Across the three components learners will study:

- one complete performance text;
- two extracts from a second contrasting performance text placed within the context of the whole text;
- either the techniques of an influential theatre practitioner or the characteristics of a genre of drama.

Students will have the opportunity to work practically as designers and/or performers on one devised performance (component 1) using the techniques or characteristics of their chosen theatre practitioner or genre and one performance based on a contrasting performance text (component 2).

The third component involves analysing theatre. This culminates in a written examination based on a set text and a live performance seen during the course.

How are students taught and assessed?

Students will have the opportunity to work practically as designers and/or performers on one devised performance (component 1) using the techniques or characteristics of their chosen theatre practitioner or genre and one performance based on a contrasting performance text (component 2).

The third component involves analysing theatre. This culminates in a written examination based on a set text and a live performance seen during the course.

Typical Curriculum Allocation:
5 hours per fortnight

Realising: apply theatrical skills to realise artistic intentions. This is assessed through the performance or design (realised in performance).

- A portfolio of supporting evidence.
- Evaluating: analyse and evaluate their own work. This is assessed through a written evaluation completed under supervised conditions.

Performing text: This component assesses the final realisation only. In addition students must submit: for performance candidates, a brief account of how they aim to interpret their chosen character, for design candidates, a brief account of how they aim to interpret the chosen scene(s) through design.

Analysing text: a series of questions assessing knowledge and understanding of an extract from a set text and one question assessing knowledge and understanding of the wider text.

In addition to this, students will be expected to provide basic details of a production they have seen and answer one question, from a choice of two, assessing analysis and evaluation of a given aspect of a live theatre production.

Curriculum Overview

Enrichment

Beyond the classroom

Schools across the trust have access to a variety of extra-curricular clubs. These include clubs for specific key stages, whole school productions and technical theatre workshops.

After school rehearsals and interventions are put in place for GCSE and A Level students, with some schools offering weekend rehearsals leading up to a performance date.

Meridian Trust runs competitions such as 'Meridian's Got Talent' as well as celebratory performances in which schools across the trust are divided into Hubs according to location and performance talent is shared.

Attendance at outside Drama Schools and clubs is encouraged for those who are keen, and external practitioners are brought in to school to deliver workshops.

Cross-Trust Activities

Meridian Trust primary and secondary performance showcases happen annually.

Hub performances and 'Meridian's Got Talent' are staged annually.

Gibraltar Lane, Swavesey, CB24 4RS